CAROL ROSE
Gordon Bradford Tweedy Professor of Law
Yale Law School
Lohse Chair for Water and Natural Resource Law
University of Arizona Rogers School of Law

Professor Carol Rose’s research focuses on history and theory of property, and on the relationships between property and environmental law. Her writings include two books, Property and Persuasion (1994), and Perspectives on Property Law (3rd ed. 2002, with R.C. Ellickson and B.A. Ackerman), and many articles on traditional and modern property regimes, environmental law, natural resource law, and intellectual property. She has degrees from Antioch College (BA Philosophy), the University of Chicago (MA Political Science, JD Law), and Cornell University (PhD History), and an honorary degree from the Chicago Kent College of Law. She is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and is on the Board of Editors of the Foundation Press.

Professor Rose has previously visited our Law School as our Wallace S. Fujiyama Distinguished Visiting Professor of Law in 1992. During her visit, she gave a lecture on “Property and the Sources of Environmental Ethics.”

The Gifford Foundation is a charitable organization established by Jack Gifford, the Chairman, President, and Chief Executive Officer of Maxim Integrated Products, Inc., in Sunnyvale, California. Gifford was named CEO of the Year in 2001 by Electronic’s Business Magazine. His company is a leading international supplier of quality analog and mixed-signal products for applications that require world signal processing.

The William S. Richardson School of Law’s Distinguished Lectureship in Real Property was established in 2002 by the Gifford Foundation to honor David L. Callies, the Benjamin A. Kudo Professor of Law, and Jerry M. Hiatt (’77), prominent Big Island attorney, for their superior work in the field of real property.
