The lehua is the first to colonize new lava, and so is known as the brave one. The first warrior into a battle is referred to as the lehua, and often this first skirmish keeps a real war from breaking out if the lehua is victorious.

Hoʻomalu ka lehua i ka wao.
The lehua shelters the forest.

The lehua tree provides the shade and shelter necessary for the understory - the entire forest - to flourish.

Honoring the Late

JON VAN DYKE

Jon was a board member of Native Hawaiian Legal Corporation at a time when there was serious doubt the organization would survive. We will never forget his many kindnesses and unwavering support during those exceedingly challenging times. His life’s work is an inspiration and legacy to everyone, especially to the generations of us who learned from Jon and continue the struggle for Native Hawaiian rights.
