Aloha!
Welcome to the University of Hawai‘i’s LLM Program for Foreign Law Graduates

The Hawai‘i LLM Program for Foreign Law Graduates
The LLM (Master of Laws) Program for Foreign Law Graduates is a one-year course of study of the U.S. legal system. If you have earned a bachelor’s degree in law at a university outside the U.S., then you may apply for the Hawai‘i LLM. Our Program will help to enhance your legal English skills and understanding of American legal culture, while providing you with the opportunity to interact daily with excellent American law students and faculty in a warm and friendly environment.

Program Highlights:
- Opportunity to Transfer to the Juris Doctorate Program
- Networking with Top Legal and Business Leaders
- Personalized Attention for LLM Students
- Hawai‘i’s Strategic Location to Pacific Rim Countries
- Hawai‘i’s Culture, Recreation & Beauty

The William S. Richardson School of Law
The School of Law is particularly strong in environmental law as well as Pacific-Asian legal studies. It maintains a very favorable student-faculty ratio (14:1), which encourages closer interaction between teachers and students. The student body now numbers around 325 and is the most ethnically and racially diverse in the nation, drawing applicants from Pacific and Asian countries as well as from Hawai‘i and throughout the U.S.
