Re-Imagining Education:
Emerging Strategies for Hawai‘i’s Schools

Dr. Kū Kahakalau is the founder and former director of Kanu o ka ‘Āina, an accredited Hawaiian-focused public charter school. Dr. Kahakalau is the first recipient of a doctorate in Indigenous Education. She has researched the impact of Hawaiian-focused education on native student performance, and has led Indigenous educational reform in Hawai‘i and worldwide.

Dr. Shawn Kanaiaupuni is the Director of Kamehameha Schools’ Public Education Support Division, providing resources and technical support to Hawai‘i’s public education system. Dr. Kanaiaupuni received her master’s and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago, and has taught at the Universities of Wisconsin and Chicago.

Professor Mari Matsuda is a law professor at the William S. Richardson School of Law. Professor Matsuda became the first tenured female Asian American law professor in the United States while at UCLA in 1998. Professor Matsuda is recognized for her work and leadership in the critical race theory movement and has published on public education as well as a range of other topics.
