Academic Success Workshops
Fall 2014

From Briefing & Note-Taking to Organizing & Outlining
Tuesday, September 9
Classroom 2
12:30-1:30
Unless you have already started, it is time to think about how to convert your notes from class and readings into an organized outline. Are you a 1L who is uncertain what that even means? Are you a 2L or 3L who wants to hone your technique to be better prepared for class and the Bar Exam? Either way, this workshop is for you. This workshop will explore the skills and habits you need to successfully organizing and outlining course material. We will also consider examples of different approaches to organizing and outlining.

From Briefing & Note-Taking to Organizing & Outlining
Tuesday, September 9
Classroom 4
5:15-6:15
The Contracts I final exam is just around the corner!!! How should you start to turn your preparation for each day into an organizational approach to help you get ready for the exam? This workshop will explore the skills and habits you need to successfully organizing and outlining course material. We will also consider examples of different approaches to organizing and outlining. This session will be targeted to meet the needs of students in the Evening Division Contracts I class.

Studying and Preparing for Law School Exams
Tuesday, September 30
Classroom 4
5:15-6:15
This workshop will address a variety of concerns students typically face as they approach their first Law School exams. What exactly do you need to know and how will you remember it all? How do you prepare differently for a closed-book versus an open-book exam? What are the components of a successful essay response? This workshop will focus specifically on preparation for the upcoming Contracts I in Evening Program.

Studying and Preparing for Law School Exams
Monday, October 13
Classroom 2
11:30-12:30
This workshop will address a variety of concerns students typically face as the approach their first Law School exams. What exactly do you need to know and how will you remember it all?

Introduction to the Bar Exam

Tuesday, September 23

12:30-1:30
Classroom 2

If you are a law student, then the Bar Exam is probably in your future. Whether you are a 3L steeling yourself to take the Bar Exam this summer or a 1L who wants to make informed decisions about course planning, this workshop can help you feel better informed. Come learn more about the Bar Exam: what subjects are tested; what kinds of questions are asked; when you need to start preparing in earnest; and what it takes to prepare for and pass on your first try.

This program will focus only on the Bar Exam, not the bar application itself or the character and fitness component of the bar.

Bar Exam Boot Camp

Tuesday, October 21

4:30-6:00
Classroom 3

This workshop will be valuable to any student planning to take the Bar Exam, but it is imperative for working students planning to sit for the February Bar Exam. The workshop will provide a condensed and focused look at the format and content of the Hawaii Bar Exam. The workshop should help students, especially those expecting to work while studying for the Bar Exam, create a realistic study and preparation schedule.

This workshop will focus only on the Bar Exam, not the bar application itself or the character and fitness component of the bar.